Claims 1-7 are presented for examination.

Claims 1-3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103 as being unpatentable over the Chemical Abstract 532428.

The chemical abstract teaches the use of the genus encompassing the claimed compound in a pharmaceutical formulation. See the entire abstract. The above reference differs from the claimed invention in the use of the specific specie as claimed herein. It would have been obvious to a person skilled in the art to choose the claimed specie, considering that it is expected that all the species of a genus have similar properties. One skilled in the art would have been motivated to employ the teachings of the above reference, since it relates the use of the genus of the claimed compound in a pharmaceutical formulation. To use any specie of the genus in a pharmaceutical formulation is considered to be within the skill of the art in the absence of evidence to the contrary. Applicant's arguments regarding the differences in the use of the claimed specie over the prior art is not well taken. Claims 1-3 are composition claims which the intended use does not effect the patentability of such compositions. Applicant has presented no evidence to establish the unexpected or unobvious nature of the claimed invention, and as such, claims 1-3 are properly rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103.
